POLICE COURT CROWDED AFTER TWO HOLIDAYS

Judge Thomas Hears Many Charges and Imposes Sentences.

It was a motley throng which greeted Judge Thomas in police court yesterday afternoon. There were sixteen prisoners lined up on various charges, but the drunks were largely in the majority. Besides those who appeared, largely because of inability to secure bail, there was an equally large number who did not appear and who in consequence forfeited whatever bail they may have deposited.

Having disposed of the drunk and disorderly charges, Judge Thomas turned his attention to W. H. Totten, who had been arrested on Friday charged with driving his motorcycle through the streets at a rate of speed in excess of that permitted by law. Mr. Totten claimed that while he had lived here for eighteen months, he was heretofore unaware that it was in violation of the law to run a motorcycle above ten miles an hour. He thought a fine of $15 would be excessive in his case. It was pointed out to him that he was daily passing along a street where a large sign notified riders of the speed beyond which they must not go. He was assessed the regulation fine of $15, which he paid.

Pearl Johnson and Jessie Jackson were each charged with prostitution, but each denied the charge, and the evidence being inconclusive they were dismissed after having been severely lectured upon their conduct. They had been arrested in a room in Chinatown while in the company of two Indians. William McKee, who on Saturday night terrorized the neighborhood at Fourth and Buchanan streets, by flourishing a hatchet and threatening all who came within sight, was assessed a fine of $7 and was allowed to go without payment of the fine during his good behavior. Yesterday morning Marshall Moore took the man to all the saloons and pointed him out to owners and bartenders and warned them against selling him liquor. McKee promised to be good in the future.

Carmen Torres provided more excitement for the spectators and police officers than was upon the program. When she had been found guilty of being drunk and disorderly she was given a fine of $15 or fifteen days. She didn't have the money to pay the fine. At the conclusion of court she was instructed to go home with the other prisoners. She declined most emphatically to do anything of the sort. When she was taken by the arm and as at tempt made to start her on her trip she commenced biting, tearing and scratching until a number of officers were obliged to pick her up bodily and carry her below. Not until she was securely locked up in the women's cell did she cease fighting and then she started cursing and shouting until she could be heard a block away from the city hall.

Besides the several cases of drunkenness in which there was no appearance, a speeder failed to show up and it is likely a warrant will be issued for him today. Altogether it was the largest docket Judge Thomas has had in many weeks and was occasioned by Sunday and Labor day following each other, during which time there was no session of the police court.
